CLASS PRESIDENT OUT FRESHMEN MAY STRIKE

Threaten Revolt Unless Mr. Sparks Rescinds Dismissal.

ECHO OF CLASS DINNER

President of State College Opposed Idea of Holding Annual Banquet of Freshmen at Williamsport---Class Absent Four Days.

The freshmen class at State College may go on a strike unless President Sparks rescinds an order expelling T. LeRoy Simpson, the class president. The matter will be brought before the faculty tonight, and unless Simpson is taken back the freshmen say they will circulate a petition demanding his reinstatement. This course failing, they say, they will go out on a strike.

The strained relations between President Sparks and the freshmen is an echo of the annual banquet of the freshmen, held last Monday night at the Park Hotel, at Williamsport. The freshmen engaged a special train and outwitted the sophomores by stealing away on Sunday night. Virtually the entire class was absent from college all week.

Before the freshmen departed for Williamsport Simpson, the class president, notified President Sparks that the banquet would be held. Prior to that he notified President Sparks that the freshmen had voted to devote their damage fees to a swimming pool fund. President Sparks frankly explained that in his judgment the money could be used to better advantage. The subject of the proposed banquet at Williamsport was then broached and President Sparks said he was opposed to it. He said that the college had suffered in the past by class banquets at out-of-town points, and suggested that the freshmen this year have their dinner at McAllister Hall.

The class dinner, and especially the annual banquet of the freshmen, to he held at McAllister Hall, remarked Simpson, would so closely resemble a pink tea that it would have no attraction to the students. President Sparks was firm in his stand in the matter and the upshot of the talk was an order to Simpson to leave State College in two days' time.

At the dinner at Williamsport the action of President Sparks was roundly censured and the decision reached to take drastic measures to aid in the reinstatement of Simpson.

MR. GRIMM TO REMAIN

Furnace Superintendent Decides Not to Leave Bellefonte.

It will be good news to the many friends of George Grimm, superintendent of the Nittany furnace, that he has decided not to leave town. Mr. Grimm has concluded to continue with the management of the furnaces and will, of course, remain in Bellefonte.

During December, last, it became known that Mr. Grimm contemplated severing his connection with Nittany furnace. At the time it was thought by his friends that he would not remain in Bellefonte longer than the first of the year. It was officially stated several days ago, however, that Mr. Grimm had changed his mind in regard to going away and that it is his intention to continue at Nittany furnace.

Lost a Fine Horse.

Forrest DeHaas, who resides on the old DeHass homestead, near Bald Eagle station, lost a valuable horse on Thursday last as the result of a peculiar accident. He drove to Nittany Valley, accompanied by Harry Glossner, of Blanchard, who wanted to buy a horse while at the Vanatta farm, near Jacksonville. The men were in the barn looking at some horses when Mr. DeHaas' mare, which had been tied to a post, got loose and ran away. The mare ran into a fence, a piece of rail penetrating her body near the flank, and then became entangled in a wire fence, finally falling and breaking a leg. The horse was shot to put her out of her misery. The animal was valued at $200.

February 22nd, 1910!

The Entertainment Committe of Gregg Post will, on above date, furnish one of their usual good suppers. Under the supervision of the chairman, S. H. Williams, and his able assistants, the public may expect a feast of good things. Tickets will be offered for sale and the patronage of friends of the Post is earnestly solicited. Supper will be on the tables promptly at 4:30 p. m. and will continue until 8 p. m. "May good digestion wait on appetite."

THE ADJUTANT.

PHIL. FOSTER CONFIRMED

Appointment as State College Postmaster is Approved.

Philip D. Foster yesterday received a telegram from United States Senator Boies Penrose saying that his appointment as postmaster at State College had been confirmed by the Senate. Mr. Foster was recently recommended by Congressman C. F. Barclay to succeed Postmaster John W. Stuart.

Senator Penrose accorded Mr. Foster his cordial support, as did also Senator George T. Oliver. President Taft yesterday forwarded the appointment to the Senate and it was immediately confirmed.

Real Estate Transfers.

Recorder Brown has recorded the following real estate transfers in the last week:

W. E. Hurley, Sheriff, to Alfred M Lee, February 2, 1910, lot in Philipsburg, $261.47.

George W. Farnsler et al to W. H. Williams et al, October 1, 1904, tract land in Worth township, $1,800.

Andrew Lytle et al, trustees, to John I. Markel, February 1, 1910, tract land in Ferguson township, $450.

Christian Reese et ux to Charles Reese, December 12, 1908, tract land in Taylor township, $1,600.

T. B. Budinger et ux to Clarence Supply Company, January 10, 1910, tract land in Snow Shoe township, $3,500.

H. W. Ingram et ux to Sarah Ingram, January 10, 1910, tract land in Union township, $500.

Candidate for State Senator.

Philip E. Womelsdorff, of Philipsburg makes a formal announcement in another column of "The Republican" of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for State Senator in the thirty-fourth district. Mr. Womelsdorff believes in the theory of getting into the race at an early date. The primaries will be held in June and he is thus the first candidate for the honor to enter the field. The thirty-fourth district is composed of Centre and Clearfield counties. Senator George M. Dimeling, a Democrat, has represented the district for the last two years and plans seeking re-election this year.

Hospital Notes.

Miss Alice Barnhart, Bellefonte; Mrs. Huff, Milesburg, and Mrs. Hull, Bellefonte, discharged.

Mrs. Sarah Neff, operation for appendicitis; condition satisfactory.

William Justice, admitted for treatment

Miss Lyde Musser spent Sunday at her home at Millheim.

Miss Artie Keller spent a week at her home at Madisonburg.

James Krape, of Howard, appointed janitor.

Fire at Central City.

Fire, on Sunday morning, last, caused damage to the amount of about $2,000 to the home of W. W. Dunkle, at Central City. Virtually everything above the first floor was destroyed, the family saving barely enough clothing for immediate use. A bucket brigade gave prompt assistance, but the flames gained too great a headway and could not be checked. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Wreck at Vail.

Two locomotives and seven or eight cars were more or less damaged in a wreck near Vail station, on Sunday evening, last. The accident happened at about the place of the wreck of the Walter L. Main circus train some years ago. The evening passenger train for Lock Haven, due at Bellefonte at 8.20 o'clock, did not arrive here until about 2 o'clock Monday morning.

Socialist to Speak.

Rev. William A. Ward, of St. Louis, a prominent Socialist, will speak in the Petrikin Hall, on Tuesday, February 22, at 8 o'clock. His subject will be: "The Real Issue." All are invited. Admission free.

Business Changes at College.

There have been quite a few business changes at State College in the last week or ten days. Other changes are proposed. F. C. Herendeen expects to give up the management of the Nittany Inn on April 1, and will be succeeded by James Aiken, of Harrisburg. Ray Gilliland, who was recently married to Miss Stuart, a daughter of Postmaster John W. Stuart, has purchased the Meek drug store. John Meek has taken Andrew Knisely's pool room and Mr. Knisely has taken charge of John Snyder's livery.

KEICHLINE DEFEATED BY MAJORITY OF 103

Many Democrats Aided in Overthrow of Veteran Squire.

KNIFED BY CHM. ZERBY

School Loan Validated by 106 Majority in Borough John Curtin Elected Auditor—Cook Wins for School Director.

After many unsuccessful attempts to overthrow Justice of the Peace John M. Keichline, Tuesday's battle at the polls saw him go down to defeat at the hands of Henry D. Brown, Republican, who came out of the fight with a clean majority of 103. Justice Keichline lost both the South and West wards in his battle to be re-elected. In the South ward, normally Democratic, Brown had a majority of 58, while in the West ward Keichline lost out by 45 majority.

This fight held the stage from the opening to the close of the polls. Leading Democrats, including County Chairman Zerby, openly knifed Keichline and worked strenuously to accomplish his defeat. The fight witnessed the widest breach in the Democratic ranks in recent years and Keichline has vowed to be revenged on Zerby and every other Democrat who aided in effecting his defeat.

This was the only exciting feature of the election in Bellefonte borough. The vote by wards on Keichline and Brown follows:

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

Ward	Brown	Keichline
South	190	132
West	97	52
Total	287	184

Brown's majority, 103.

The question of validating the first school loan of $32,000, was approved in all three wards, having a majority of 106 in the borough. The vote by wards on [illegible] follows:

SCHOOL LOAN.

Ward	For	Against
North	100	46
South	82	38
West	42	34
Total	224	118

Majority for Loan 106.

For Borough Auditor, John Curtin, Republican, won out over Wagner Geiss, Democratic, and W. Miles Walker, Democratic. He carried all three wards, leading Geiss by 145 votes and Walker by 83 votes. The vote by ward follows:

BOROUGH AUDITOR.

Ward	Curtin	Geiss	Walker
North	182	67	117
South	172	151	165
West	78	69	67
Total	432	287	349

Curtin's plurality over Geiss, 145; over Walker 83.

In the North ward, Charles F. Cook, Republican, defeated J. Henry Wetzel, Democratic, for school director by 21 majority. Every Republican candidate in the ward was elected.

In the South ward Councilman P. L. Beezer and School Director W. C. Heinle, both Democratic, were re-elected. For assessor, R. B. Montgomery, Republican, defeated George Doll, Democratic, in this ward, by 34 majority.

L. H. Gettig, Democratic, defeated Darius Waite, Republican, for school director in the West ward, by 4 majority, the vote being 76 to 72.

Borough Treasurer Edward J. Gehret, Republican, and Overseer of the Poor Patrick H. Gherrity, Democratic, had no opposition for re-election. Justice of the Peace William H. Musser, Republican, was also without opposition for re-election in the North ward.

NORTH WARD.

Judge of election, Samuel B. Miller, Republican, 174; Daniel Heckman, Democratic, 103. Inspector, George Williams, Republican, 159; J. W. Barnhart, Democratic, 119. Assessor, G. W. LIGHT TURN-OUT IN DISTRICTS IN COUNTY

Two Townships For And Two Reject Work Road Tax.

RESULT IS IN DOUBT

Benner and Howard Townships Have Majority Against Cash Tax But it is Claimed That Majority of all Electors is Required.

A light vote attended Tuesday's election in the county. Four townships voted on a proposition to substitute a work road tax system for the present cash tax system. Benner and Howard townships voted in favor of the work tax system, while Half-Moon and Patton voted the other way. Whether the vote of Benner and Howard townships determines the matter is an open question. It is held by lawyers that to change the present system requires a vote of a majority of the electors in each township. It is claimed that a majority of the electors in neither of the two townships in question voted to change the present system.

Returns from the several townships follow:

All persons interested in profitable agriculture are invited to attend these free lectures. Ladies will be welcomed. The train will be run on scheduled time and the people are requested to be promptly on time and to take seats in the coaches as soon as the train stops.

BOY TRIES SUICIDE

Linden Hall Lad Resented Father's Refusal of Money.

Because his father refused to give him all the money he thought he should have, Edward Weaver, a 19-years-old son of Charles Weaver, of Linden Hall, attempted suicide on Thursday morning of last week. He fired two bullets into his body, one above and the other below the heart. Neither caused any serious wound and the young man was soon out of danger.

Young Weaver was in Bellefonte on Wednesday looking for work. Not succeeding in finding employment, he returned home. Some time after the young man had gone to his room, a revolver shot was heard. Mr. Weaver, the father, started to investigate, when the son ordered him back and threatened to shoot him, too. The young man then fired a second bullet into his left side.

Since his rather exciting escapade, young Weaver has concluded that the farm is a pretty good place after all, so he has concluded to remain at home and work for another year, at least.

Dunkle License Refused.

Judge Orvis on Friday last, handed down an opinion refusing the application for a renewal of the liquor license of the Centre Hall Hotel. A remonstrance was filed against the application for renewal. Judge Orvis refused the application on the ground that it had been filed too late.

OBSERVING LENT

Period of Fasting Under Way—Easter Sunday is March 27.

Lent, the period of fasting, was begun yesterday and continues until March 27, Easter Sunday. Good Friday follows on March 25. Regulations for the Lenten period were read in the several Catholic churches on Sunday last. As promulgated, these laws are as follows:

1. All the faithful who have completed their twenty first years, unless legitimately dispensed, are bound to observe the fast of Lent.

2. They are allowed only one full meal a day.

3. The meal allowed on fast days is not to be taken till about noon.

4. A small refreshment, commonly called collation, is allowed in the evening. No general rules as to the quantity of food permitted at this time is or can be made, but the practice of the most regular Christians is never to let it exceed the fourth part of an ordinary meal.

5. By virtue of an adult of the holy see the following concessions in Lent were granted temporarily:

A. In the morning a piece of bread, not exceeding two ounces, with a drink of coffee, tea or chocolate, or any similar beverage can be taken.

B. When the principal meal cannot be taken about noon, it is lawful to invert the order by taking the collation in the morning and dinner in the evenng.

C. In preparing food that is permitted lard or fat may be made use of.

D. Persons dispensed from the obligation of fasting are not bound by the restrictions of using meat only at one meal on days on which its use is granted by the dispensation. And those who are obliged to fast are permitted the use of flesh meat only at one meal.

6. The following persons are exempt from the obligation of fasting: Young persons under 21 years of age, the sick, pregnant women, or those giving suck to infants, persons obliged to do hard labor and all who through weakness cannot fast without great prejudice to their health.

7. By dispensation the use of flesh meat will be allowed at all meals Sundays, and once a day Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays with the exception of Saturdays in Ember week, and the last Saturday in Lent. The use of butter, cheese, milk and eggs is also permitted every day in Lent. The use of flesh meat and fish at the same meal on any day, even on Sundays, is forbidden.

staining from intoxicating drink in honor of the Sacred Thirst of Our Lord, so warmly recommended by the late soverign pontiff, is suggested to the piety of the faithful of this diocese as a means of penance and merit during the holy season of Lent.

9. The time for making the Easter communion will date from the first Sunday in Lent, February 13, till the Sunday within the Ascension (May 8) inclusive.

By virtue of an adult of the holy see working people are permitted, for a term of years, the use of meat on all days of fast and abstinence throughout the year except Fridays, Ash Wednesdays, the Wednesday and Saturday of holy week and the vigil of Christmas. However, it is forbidden to use flesh meat and fish at the same meal.

This concession is made not only to the working people themselves, but also to their families, and hence each member of the family may enjoy the same privilege.

On fast days those working people who are not exempt from the law of fast on account of hard labor may use meat only at the principal meal on the day on which its use is allowed.

Those who make use of the above indult are admonished to perform other works of penance in place of the abstinence from which they are dispensed.

BOTTLES, ANCIENT AND NEW

Processes Most Ordinary Go Through in The Course of Manufacture.

Although the oldest bottles known were made of skins, glass bottles containing wine are represented on Egyptian monuments which are more than 4,000 years old, while as early as the Pharaoh of the Exodus there were bottles made of bronze, silver, gold, porcelain and alabaster, while from their superior workmanship and elegant design go to prove that even at that period the art of bottle making was by no means in its infancy. The early history of the bottle is somewhat meager, owing no doubt, says the London Globe, to the fact that the true bottle has never been a thing of much beauty, except in a few rare instances, but rather a humble vessel of no intrinsic value.

Bottles are made today in stupendous quantities, and are of all sorts, sizes and descriptions. In the manufacture of a common bottle either sand, soap boiler's waste, brick clay or other materials, according to locality, are used. Having been run down into a molton mass the metal is skimmed and the first operator, known as the "gatherer," takes a little of the glass on the end of a heated pipe. When this has cooled somewhat he again dips his pipe into the glass, having "gathered" in the two dips sufficient to make a bottle. This he hands on to the "blower," who as he blows through the tube rolls the metal on a stone, thereby fashioning the bottle neck. The roughly shaped mass is then placed in a mould and the operator continues to blow until he has brought it to the required form. After this the bottle is handed to the finisher, who by touching the neck with a small piece of iron dipped in water completely severs it from the pipe. He attaches the pontee, an iron instrument tipped with molten glass, to the bottom of the bottle and thus gives it the usual rounded shape. This pontee may be used for from 20 to 24 dozen bottles. Then, warming the bottle at the furnace, the finisher takes a small quantity of the metal on what is known as a ring iron, and turning it around the mouth, forms the ring seen at the top of the neck. Taking the shears, he trims the neck. In the center of one blade of the shears is a piece of brass tapering like a cork, which forms the inner mouth, while the other blade has a piece of brass, fastened to it, for the purpose of shaping the ring. A boy lifts the completed bottle on a fork, and it is taken to the annealing arch, which contains about 10 or 12 gross of bottles placed in bins one above the other. These are the processes which even the cheapest and most ordinary bottle has to go through, so it can well be imagined what an infinitude of care and trouble is needed to produce a bottle of the finest grade.

Non-Payment of Debt Not a Crime.

Judge Kooser, of Somerset county, on Friday handed down an opinion favorable to George E. Beatty. In this case Beatty invoked an old English law to prevent his being remanded to jail for the non-payment of debt. The case was an unusual one, and the decision of the court had been awaited with some interest by the legal fraternity.

On May 29, 1900, the jury in the case of Elmer E. Sullivan charged by Beatty with assaulting the latter's wife, found him not guilty and the costs placed on the prosecutor. Beatty was on June 8 sentenced in accordance with the verdict but on the same day, without having undergone imprisonment, he presented to the court of common pleas a petition, with bond conditioned that he appear at the next session of court, asking for his discharge under the insolvent laws and his discharge from the custody of the sheriff in the meantime.

In announcing his decision favorable to Beatty, the court says that the opinion while not in accordance with the practice which had previously obtained in Somerset county, was based upon the authority of the Kishbang appeal. Referring to the appeal in his opinion, Judge Koozer says:

"The case was an appeal in the Supreme Court on the single specification that the Court erred "in discharging the prisoner before he had undergone an imprisonment in pursuance of his sentence." The Supreme Court sustained the finding of the lower court, and Judge Koozer, in following this precedent, has made an order for the discharge of Beatty.

HORSE WITH CHARMED LIFE

Old Bill Survived Peril in Logging District.

Logging is sometimes considered a hazardous occupation, but in mountainous countries there is a much greater loss of life among the horses than among the men. When a heavy load of logs is being dragged down a steep descent, the chain, or other devices used to hold them back, sometimes breaks, and lets the whole load down on the nearest horse. There is one horse which has been logging in the White mountains for years, and notwithstanding many narrow escapes, "Old Bill" seems to bear a charmed. Leonard Dewitt Sherman in his "Logging in the White Mountains," in the February "Recreation," thus describes this horse's tactics:

Up to a few days before Old Bill had been working with a mate called "Cheyry," hauling logs with a single sled directly from the stumps to small landings or "yards" beside the main roads. One day, on a steep pitch, something gave way and let the load onto them, and they were unable to hold it. Old Bill promptly sat down on his tail and slid; Cherry, with less experience and lacking the knowledge of what to do in an emergency, threw himself, was scraped into a tree and sustained a broken neck. That is what they called "sluicing a team."

So Old Bill was put to work "twitching" logs. He was pretty slow. I had to look carefully to see which way he was going, and nothing in the wide world would make him move faster. When he came to a pitch he would stop and look about to see if anybody was going to help him down. After the driver had pushed him over he would sit down and slide. If the log he was dragging had a "tail-chain" wrapped around it, everything went smoothly; if it didn't it would slide down and bump him. In that case he would make a nifty hop to one side or else spread his legs and let the log slide between them. If he was swept off his feet, it was all one to him, and he was apt to sit down on the log and ride to the bottom. I watched the performance two or three times with ever-growing amazement.

SLOW FILING RETURNS

Many Corporations Delay Complying With New Tax Law.

Under the Act of Congress approved by the President August 5, 1909, all incorporated companies are required to file a return before March 1st next. Collector G. T. Davis, whose District comprises twenty counties in the northeastern part of Pennsylvania, including Centre County, reports that many companies have as yet failed to file the returns required by [illegible] to file these returns, and penalties will be imposed in all cases where the return is not received on time.

So particular is the Treasury Department in this respect that Collector Davis has been notified that any return received by him on March 1st having been mailed the day previous must have the envelope showing the post mark at the office where the same was mailed attached to the return in order that the company may avoid having penalties assessed. No excuse whatever will be accepted for failure to file the return on time, as all companies on record have had blanks and a copy of the Act mailed to them, and if they refuse or neglect to file the return, they will probably find their concerns in serious difficulty.

Companies alleging ignorance of the law, or that no blanks were received, will be treated as delinquent corporations and penalties will in all such cases be assessed and collected. The officers of all incorporated concerns must inform themselves as to the law and comply with it.

RELIEF FUND PAYMENT

P. R. R. Pays Out Over $160,000 in Month of December.

With a membership of 146,868 men out of approximately 182,000 employes, the Pennsylvania Railroad System Relief Funds paid out in the month of December, 1909, the sum of $166,709.40. According to the report for December, issued a day or two ago, there has been paid in benefits since the relief funds were established in 1886 a total of $27,473,712.21.

On the lines East of Pittsburgh and Erie in the month of December, payments to the amount of $116,473.40 were made to members of the relief fund. In benefits to the families of members who died $48,282.20 were paid, while to members incapacitated for work the benefits amounted to $68,191.20. The total payments on the Lines East of Pittsburgh since the relief fund was established have amounted to $20,031,861.20.

In December, the Relief Fund of the Pennsylvania Lines West of Pittsburgh paid out a total of $50,236.00, of which $21,500.00 were for the families of members who died, and $28,736.00 for members unable to work. The sum of $7,441,851.01 represents the total payments of the Relief Fund of the Pennsylvania Lines since it was established in 1889.

Isn't It Awful?

"Isn't it awful?" the maiden cried,
Shaking her head in a sad dismay,
But we found when to comfort her woe we tried
She was telling how hot it had been that day.

"Isn't it awful?" the maiden said,
And her eyes grew wide with the horror there.
Yet no one was murdered and no one was dead,
She had torn her gown on a stupid chair.

"Isn't it awful?" the maiden gasped,
Yet it wasn't a case for a sigh or a sob.
She simply stood with her bundles clasped
In her weary arms in a shopping mob.

"Isn't it awful?" the maiden moaned.
Alas, we laughed! How were we to tell
She had lost her father and all he owned
In a holocaust in a big hotel?

FOLEY'S ORINO LAXATIVE
FOR STOMACH TROUBLE and CONSTIPATION

SPARED THE CHIEF.

Jackson Admired the Bravery of the Famous Indian.

Andrew Jackson was magnanimous in his treatment of Weathersford, the famous Creek chieftain, when that warrior surrendered. Weathersford had done all in his power to prevent the horrible massacre at Fort Mims, but most of the frontiersmen were bitter against him, and Jackson himself had sworn to put him to death if he were taken.

One day after the power of his people had been utterly broken Weathersford came riding into Jackson's camp on his famous gray horse and stopped in front of the general's tent.

"How dare you ride up to my tent after having murdered the women and children at Fort Mims?" demanded Jackson in astonishment.

The chief denied the truth of the charge, but said he: "You may kill me if you will. I come to get aid for the women and little children who are starving in the woods. If I could fight you any longer I would do so, but my warriors are all dead. Send for the women and little children. They never did you any harm. But kill me if the white people want it done."

The troops, crowding about, began to cry menacingly: "Kill him! Kill him!"

"Silence!" ordered Old Hickory sternly. "Any one who would kill as brave a man as this would rob the dead."

The general treated the chief kindly and even gave him permission if he desired to depart and continue the war. The chief afterward settled on a plantation, where he resided for many years, honored alike by white men and red.—Chicago Tribune.

SOLVING A PROBLEM.

The Green Country Brakeman Who Introduced the "Saw By."

Many years ago a green country boy applied to the superintendent of a western railway for work and, somewhat against the superintendent's wish, on account of the danger to life and limb attendant upon such occupation, was given a place as brakeman of a freight train.

On one of his first trips it happened that his train met another freight train at a station where the sidetrack was not long enough to accommodate either of them. The conductors were debating which train should back up to a point where they could pass when the new hand ventured to suggest that neither should back; that they could pass each other by means of the short sidetrack if the thing was managed right.

The idea excited a good deal of laughter on the part of the old trainmen, but the boy stood his ground.

"Well, how would you go about it?" asked one of the conductors, confident that the lad would soon find himself [illegible]

The boy took up a stick and traced in the sand a diagram to illustrate his plan.

"Good gracious!" said the conductor. "I believe that will do it!"

And it did do it. Today every trainman in America probably knows how to "saw by" two long trains on a short sidetrack, but it is not so generally known that the thing was never done until an inexperienced country boy who became the manager of a great railway line worked out the problem for himself.

The White Shark.

The shark of sharks, the real "man eater" and the one most dreaded, is the white shark. This variety reaches a length of thirty-five feet and a weight of 2,000 pounds. Its head is long and flat, and the snout far overhangs the mouth. Its six rows of teeth are sharp as lancets and notched like saws. Its mouth is very large, so that one has been known to cut a man's body completely in two at a single snap of its cruel jaws and another to swallow one at a gulp. Near Calcutta one of these sharks was seen to swallow a bullock's head, horns and all. From the stomach of another a bull's hide was taken entire, and the sailor who made the discovery insisted that the bull had been swallowed whole and all except the hide had been digested. From the stomach of another was taken a lady's workbox filled with the usual contents, scissors and all. It is commonly the white shark which follows the vessel at sea day after day and week after week.

The Retort Courteous.

"Camp Meeting" John Allen was a famous Methodist preacher and revivalist of the old days down in Maine, and, like most successful pulpit orators, his sense of humor was equal to his gift of speech.

It is recalled by the Boston Journal that on one occasion the old gentleman's wife was getting into a carriage, and he neglected to assist her.

"You are not as gallant, John, as when you were a boy!" she exclaimed in gentle rebuke.

"No," was his ready response, "and you are not as buoyant as when you were a gal!"

After Slayer of Deer.

Deputy Game Warden F. J. McWilliams is on the trail on the unlawful slayer of a deer which was found dead in a cornfield near Loganton, Clinton county, recently, where the animal had succumbed after having received a charge of buckshot from a gun in the hands of a man against whom the game warden declares he has secured evidence and whose arrest, he announced while in Williamsport, would soon follow. Deputy Warden McWilliams visited the office of Alderman Rhoads during his stay in Williamsport, but whether a warrant was issued for the slayer of the deer was not disclosed.

The carcass of the animal was found imbedded in the ice and had apparently been dead many days when discovered. It is believed that the deer was shot in the mountains near Loganton and that frenzied by pain and fear it fled to the open country and fell exhausted. McWilliams was notified and began a search for the guilty hunter. Lock Haven Express.

Heart Troubles

The heart may be weak just the same as the eyes, stomach or other organs. It often happens that a person is born with a weak heart. Then again disease, fevers, over-exertion, anxiety, nervousness, rheumatism, etc. weaken the heart. The result is shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in the heart, or in some of the nerves of the chest or abdomen. The heart should be strengthened with a tonic, and for this nothing equals Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"I had LaGrippe last fall as I thought in a mild form. I was weak, tired feeling, and short of breath; could hardly go about, and a good deal of the time sort of an asthmatic breathing and extremely nervous. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and now I feel so much better in every way. I am so thankful that I began taking this medicine, and shall not hesitate to tell others how much good it has done me."

R. R. FIRE DEPARTMENT

Pennsylvania's Employes Extinguish Many Blazes.

The annual report of the Insurance Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad System, shows that the Company's own employes extinguished 321 fires during 1909. These fires occurred on property valued at more than $9,000,000, yet the loss from which amounted to only about $20,000.

The Insurance Department's report derives added significance from the fact that during the past year additional equipment for extinguishing fires has been placed at available points. The Company's own organization for fighting fires has been further developed by special training of employes, and additional locomotives in yard service have been equipped with special apparatus for use in case of fire.

A circular is to be issued by the Insurance Department giving the causes of all fires on the Pennsylvania System East and West of Pittsburg in 1909, in order that the employes may realize that their efforts to minimize losses from fire are appreciated, and further, that their attention may be called to the number of fires occurring from preventable causes.

During the year 1909 there were 925 fires on the entire System, involving a loss of only $402,615, which was exceedingly small, comparatively, to the value of the property.

Forty fires, entailing a loss of $11,079, started on adjacent property. Spontaneous combustion was responsible for a loss of $10,315, from 21 fires. Two fires resulting from careless handling of lighted cigars, cigarettes and matches, caused a loss of $60,395. Nine fires were due to tramps, with a loss to the company of $1,270, and 28 fires, with a loss of $28,670, were of incendiary origin.

Egg Troubles Solved.

A total of 300,000,000,000 eggs a year, the amount left in the hands of the Chinese after they have utilized the 5,000,000,000,000 eggs that 400,000,000,000 hens lay every year—as estimated by food authorities—can be bought by trust-pecked Americans at the rate of 2 cents a pound, and without the shell, says a Washington dispatch.

The Chinese government is about to take a hand in the greater exportation of this commodity, which is not unknown in this country, as nearly 350 tons of them were imported last year.

These eggs are guaranteed to be real hen eggs and fresh at the time of preparation. A Chinese formula is used to dry them after the shell is removed. While they cannot fry "sunny side up" analysis has proved that the integral part of them does not lose its properties by the drying.

Deceiving the Widow.

A healthy looking woman dressed in deep mourning stepped on to the platform scales and requested the grocer's clerk to ascertain her weight. He looked and said, "One hundred and forty pounds."

"You made a mistake of twelve pounds in that woman's weight," said another man who had also watched the scales. "She weighed 152 pounds instead of 140."

"I know that," said the clerk, "but she never would have forgiven me if I had told her so. That woman's husband died about six weeks ago. She has gained seven pounds in that time, but to keep her in good humor with herself I had to make her think she had lost five. I don't know why it is, but anybody who has suffered bereavement seems to consider it a disgrace to take on flesh. That woman has been weighed three times since her husband died. She would be shocked if she knew she had gained right along. Fortunately she is too nearsighted to read the scales herself, so it is easy to make her think she is wasting away."—New York Press.

Law and the Queen.

The quaintness of many provisions of British law is curiously illustrated in the status of the queen of England. So far as her majesty's private business is concerned, she is not regarded by the laws and customs of England as a married woman at all. She is the only woman in Great Britain who does not come within the scope of the married woman's property act. The idea in all this is that affairs of state consume all the time of the king, and therefore no responsibility for the queen's private business rests upon him. If the queen contracted debts in her husband's name he would not be responsible for them, as any other husband in the United Kingdom would. The king cannot be sued for debt, but the queen can be. Should the king die, some authorities hold that the queen could not marry again, in case she wished to, without the license of the king's successor.—New York Tribune.

Dog Law in Constantinople.

"When one of the street dogs of Constantinople gets too old to be of use to the band the captain dog decides that he is to die," says Albert Bigelow Paine in Harper's Weekly. "A day comes when the captain issues an edict that he is no longer to have food. From that day until his death not a morsel passes his lips. With longing eyes he looks at the others eating, but he makes no attempt to join them. Now and again a bit of something falls his way. The temptation is too strong—he reaches toward the morsel. The captain, who overlooks nothing, gives a low growl. The dying creature shrinks back without a murmur. He knows the law. Perhaps he, too, was once a captain. The minister's wife told me that she had tried to feed one of those dying dogs, but that even when food was placed in front of him he would only look pleadingly at the captain and refuse to touch it."

How They Got 'Em.

The sad looking man climbed into the bootblack's chair to have his shoes shined.

"And is your father a bootblack, too?" he asked, by way of making conversation.

"No, sir," replied the lad. "My father is a farmer."

"Ah, a farmer!" cried the sad looking man as a spasm almost akin to joy spread over his features. As he reached into his pocket for a notebook and pencil he began to mumble a sort of gibberish. It sounded like this:

"Farmer, hey? Farmer—hay. Son, bootblack. Son shines. Ah! I have it. Your father evidently believes in making hay while the son shines."

Perhaps it is needless to explain that instead of being a mild lunatic the sad looking man was one of those professional humorists who write funny pieces for the papers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Laughter Saved the Ship.

Humor has been credited with the saving of many things, but perhaps never before has a ship been saved by its judicious application. In a great storm many years ago a ship's crew were all at prayers when a boy burst into a fit of violent laughter. Being reproved for his ill timed mirth and asked the reason for it, he said, "Why, I was laughing to think what a hissing the boatswain's red nose will make when it comes in contact with the water." This ludicrous remark set the crew laughing, inspired them with new spirits, and by a great exertion they brought the vessel safely into port.—Liverpool Post.

Two Narrow Escapes.

An Irishman, seeing a vessel very heavily laden and scarcely above the water's edge, exclaimed, "Upon my sowl, if the river was but a little higher the ship would go to the bottom!"

"See there!" exclaimed the returned Irish soldier to the gaping crowd as he exhibited with some pride his tall hat with a bullet hole in it. "Look at that hole, will ye! Ye see, if it had been a low crowned hat I should have been killed outright."

His Temper.

"My dear," said a lady to her husband, "there must be a lot of iron in your system."

"Why do you think so?"

"Because you invariably lose your temper when you get hot!"

Discoveries.

So many famous discoveries have turned out to be re-discoveries that we become cautious about asserting that any event or achievement was the first of its kind.—John Diske.

LAND CRABS.

Queer Creatures That Roam In Forests Far From the Sea.

One of the commonest and the largest of the Christmas island land crabs is the well known robber crab, which is found in most of the tropical islands of the Indian and Pacific oceans. It sometimes reaches a length of two feet and may measure seven inches across the back. Its colors are of a very gaudy description, the ground color being a bright red, upon which there are stripes of yellow, but in some cases a purplish blue is the prevailing tint.

The eyes are fixed on stalks which can be moved independently of one another, and there are two pairs of feelers, one long, the other short. The latter pair are continually jerked up and down. There is a pair of powerful claws, then several walking legs. In general appearance these animals are much more like rather stout lobsters than crabs, and one's first encounter with one of these creatures in the middle of a forest far from the sea is productive of much astonishment on both sides.

Another species of land crab common in Christmas island is a little bright red animal which in general shape is much like the common shore crab. This variety makes burrows in the ground, and in some places the soil is honeycombed with hundreds of holes. The crabs spend most of their time collecting dead leaves, which they carry in their claws, holding them up over their heads and drag down into their burrows, into which they scuttle at the least alarm.—Pearson's Magazine.

DR. JOHNSON.

He Never Said a Word About Taking a Walk Down Fleet Street.

The wit and wisdom of that great man Dr. Johnson were of the sledge-hammer order and invariably preceded by "sir," so that it is comparatively easy for any one who has acquired the trick to invent a retort or remark in the Johnsonian style. One of the most effective of these pseudo sayings of the doctor is, "And now, sir," said Dr. Johnson, "we will take a walk down Fleet street." There can be but little doubt that Dr. Johnson did make this remark, for he was always walking down Fleet street, but it is not recorded that he did so. The saying is due to George Augustus Sala, who when the magazine Temple Bar was being started by Mr. Maxwell imagined a quotation from Boswell as a motto for the venture. The thing was intended as a joke, but for a long while it was absolutely believed to be a quotation from Boswell, and perhaps there are still some who would say unhesitatingly that Dr. Johnson did say the words, so seemingly authentic are they. However, Sala himself always acknowledged that he invented the phrase and added that to the best of his knowledge and belief Dr. Johnson had never said a word about taking a walk down Fleet street. There are other legends about Johnson, however, which it is not so easy to kill.—London Globe.

Salt as a Medicine.

I have in the past seven or eight years found the advantage of putting a little salt in all the water I drink. I also put a little salt, with sugar and milk, in every cup of tea, coffee or cocoa I use.

I have been a resident in the tropics for over forty years and except for a sprained ankle have not had occasion to call in a doctor or to take any medicine in the last thirty years. I believe every one's health in the tropics would be very much better if he used more salt. I find the benefit of drinking a tumbler of cold water with a little salt in it every morning on rising at about 5 o'clock, before my bath or cup of cocoa, which I usually take between 5:30 and 6.

If people could be induced to try the easy and cheap method of taking a little common salt with the water they drink they would in the generality of cases find that they would seldom require other medicine.—F. N. Burn in Chambers' Journal.

Poisonous Gas Geyser.

In the midst of the great faunal wilderness near Nairobi, Africa, is a big blowhole in the earth issuing poisonous gases. Surrounding this hole for many yards are piled bones of dead animals poisoned by this gas geyser. Dogs dragged by ropes over the hole were killed in less than a minute. The gas has been found to be hydrochloric, coming from some volcanic depth. The death trap has been fenced and filled with warnings.—New York Press.

Sprinkling a Trestle.

A wooden trestle on the Klamath Lake railroad, in Oregon, is protected from fire in the dry season by a system of sprinklers which keep it continually wet. A pipe runs the entire length of the trestle between the tracks, and at short distances are holes through which the water is sprayed over the structure.—Popular Mechanics.

No Use.

"You say Jones is down and out? Why, it was only a little while ago that he told me he had the key of success."

"He did, but the poor fellow wasn't able to find the keyhole."—Exchange.

Made Her a Fright.

"Mrs. Jones has a new hat."

"Well, you look mightily pleased about it."

"You just ought to see how it looks on her."—Houston Post.

Jimmy's Recitation.

Jimmy is one of the most enthusiastic members of his Sunday school. He is usually very quiet, but when, soon after he joined, a storm prevented many members of his class from coming to take their parts in a long planned entertainment Jimmy could not endure in silence the distress of his teacher.

"Hi can speak a piece," he said bashfully.

"Oh, can you? What is it about?"

"'Bout the beasts that went with Noah."

"Well, said the distracted teacher, "I haven't time to hear it now, but I think it ought to help fill up. Thank you, Jimmy."

When Jimmy's name was called the small man mounted the platform, put his hands in his pockets and proudly and loudly spouted the following:

The helk and the helephant hentered the hark
When the helephant hopened the ball.
The helk hasked the helephant, "What's to heat?"
Said the helephant, "'Ay is hall."
The helk and the helephant hate the 'ay;
Said the helk, with a heloquent sigh,
"Hi 'ope you are 'appy this 'orrible day."
And the helephant hanswered, "Haye."

Coyote and Jack Rabbit.

The speed of the jack rabbit has always been proverbial among western men, like the speed of a coyote. In a straightaway race it is claimed that the jack rabbit can distance the coyote, but he usually falls a victim to the coyote's superior intelligence. The favorite coyote method for catching jack rabbits is for one of the animals to start a jack and attend to the work of keeping the victim on the run, while the other coyote sits down, patiently awaiting the arrival of his dinner. The jack rabbit when he has a free range will run in circles, and the coyotes cleverly count on this habit. Before long the rabbit will arrive at the place from which he started, and there coyote No. 2, fresh and ready for a short sprint, will swoop down upon him and then divide the meal with the coyote that has done the actual chasing.—New York Press.

Hunting Truffles as Sport.

Quite apart from the interest of fungi to the naturalist the temptation cannot here be resisted to refer to a method of procuring one kind of fungus, which might take rank among the minor sports. This is the fashion, originating in France, of procuring the truffle by the aid of swine and hounds. More ill assorted sporting companions can hardly be imagined. The truffle grows underground. Pigs are particularly fond of these delicacies and, guided by the scent, will discover them by rooting in the earth. After the discovery of the truffles the dogs are employed to beat back the pigs and prevent them from devouring the spoil. And every quality dear to the sportsman of skill and judgment is needed to control and obtain the desired result from the efforts of a herd of swine and a pack of hounds.—London Outlook.

Habits of Seals.

The habits of seals are very interesting. The very young seal is helpless in the water until he is taught by his mother to swim. She takes him into the water daily on her fin and dumps him in and when he gets tired of floundering about places him on her fin again and returns to her camp. When the young seals are well grown they suddenly disappear with their mothers and the bull seals. No one knows where they go, and their return is equally as sudden as their departure. The bulls are the first to put in an appearance at the camping ground. When they arrive they commence at once to prepare a camp for their mates, which they stake off and for which they fight until they die. In the meantime the female seals remain quite a distance from land, floating lazily on the water and seemingly having a good time.

Ant Eaters.

Ant eaters are in the curious position of being practically unable to open their mouths. It may almost be said, indeed, that they have no mouths to open. There is just a small, round orifice at the end of the snout, through which about two feet of wormlike tongue can wriggle out, and as this tongue is bathed with liquid glue instead of saliva every ant which it touches adheres to it, and the animal licks the insects up by hundreds at a time.

Not Up to Modern Standards.

"Your wife's new hat makes her look like a queen," said the man who tries to be complimentary.

"Don't let her hear you say that," answered Mr. Bliggins. "I have looked throught the histories, and I never yet saw a picture of a queen who looked as if she employed a first class milliner."—Washington Star.

Evarts and the Author.

When a popular young author went to see William M. Evarts while he was secretary of state in behalf of a consulship for which he was an applicant Mr. Evarts congratulated him on the fame which he had acquired, but hastened to add, "Although you have laurels on your brows, I suppose you can't browse on your laurels."

Inquisitive.

After Sunday school:

Willie—Did you hear that boy swear, Johnny, when I told him to go away? Johnny—No. (Quietly persuasive) Tell him to go away again and I'll listen.—Manchester Guardian.

Human nature is so constituted that all see and judge better in the affairs of other men than in their own.—Terence.

SIRES AND SONS.

Field Marshal Lord Roberts of the British army celebrated his golden wedding anniversary recently.

James W. Poor of Charleston, Mass., has not missed a meeting of Faith Masonic lodge since its institution forty-two years ago.

Isaac McHose of Reading, who helped to build the first anthracite blast furnace at Catasauqua in 1839, recently celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday.

Mount Joy boasts of having the tallest schoolboy in Pennsylvania. He is John Sherman Fasig. He is fifteen years old, weighs 212 pounds and is six feet seven inches tall.

Sir James Pliny Whitney, premier of the Canadian province of Ontario, was born on a farm, studied law and began practice and was then elected to the provincial parliament.

Robert H. Armstrong, who has installed the government wireless telegraph service on the Pacific coast from Seward, Alaska, to southern California, was born in New York city thirty-nine years ago and was educated in the public schools of Brooklyn.

Robert L. McCormick, president of the largest bank in Tacoma, the biggest individual stockholder in a great lumber company in the state of Washington and Republican national committeeman, is sixty-eight years old and prides himself on being a self made man who never has worn a necktie.

There are probably not many landowners who ply the hoe and rake at the age of eighty-two, but Lord Haddington has always given the closest personal attention to his property, and gardening in particular has always been one of his keenest delights. Eleventh earl and a representative peer for Scotland, Lord Haddington succeeded to the title nearly forty years ago.

Sporting Notes.

R. E. Walker, the winner of the Olympic sprint championship, is in London, where he may become a reporter on a newspaper.

Twenty thousand business men of New Orleans want horse racing reestablished and have petitioned the general assembly to legalize bookmaking under certain restrictions.

The Automobile Club of California is arranging for a big road race over a course entirely within the confines of San Francisco and covering a portion of the famous Golden Gate park.

Willie Anderson, western open golf champion and former national title holder, has resigned from the St. Louis Country club and announced his intention of competing in European events next season.

Train and Track.

It is just being realized that the Transsiberian railroad was a poor job from an engineering standpoint.

Another section of the Pan-American railroad is completed—that from the port of Ilo, in southern Peru, to Mognegna, an inland town.

The exterior walls of the new Pennsylvania terminal station in New York are nearly half a mile long and contain 490,000 cubic feet of granite.

Chicago now has a law which makes traction companies return the fares to passengers who are on a car which is detained ten minutes or more.

Engineers are figuring on piercing Mont Blanc for a double track electric railroad. The tunnel would be eight miles long and would shorten the distance between Paris and Genoa thirty miles.

Law Points.

The adoption of a child under the statutes of one state is held in Brown versus Finley (Ala.), 47 So., 577; 21 L. R. A. (N. S.), 679, to confer upon him no rights of inheritance in lands in another state.

One who intentionally points a gun at another, which is by statute made a misdemeanor, is held in McDaniel versus State (Ala.), 46 So., 988; 21 L. R. A. (N. S.), 678, to be guilty of manslaughter in the second degree if the gun while so pointed is accidentally discharged, producing the death of the one toward whom it is pointed.

English Etchings.

The high price of leather is beginning to embarrass the English shoe industry.

A vegetable cheese is being made in an experimental way in England from the casein contained in soya beans.

An unemployed man purchased a pair of old fashioned shoes in a London shop for ninepence. When he had cleaned them he found that the buckles were solid gold, and he sold them for £5.

College and School.

The University of Buenos Aires has now 4,364 students.

Women are now allowed admission to full matriculation in all German universities except Rostock.

Fifty years a pedagogue—that is the record of Orville T. Bright, superintendent of district No. 8 of the Chicago public school system.

Forty-one schools along the line of the railroads have been established in Cape Colony, South Africa, for the children of the railroad employees.

CHICAGO MERCHANT MAKES STATEMENT.

After Spending Thousands of Dollars and Consulting the Most Eminent Physicians, He Was Desperate.

CHICAGO, ILLS.—Mr. J. G. Becker, of 134 Van Buren St., a well-known wholesale dry goods dealer, states as follows:

"I have had catarrh for more than thirty years. Have tried everything on earth and spent thousands of dollars for other medicines and with physicians, without getting any lasting relief, and can say to you that I have found Peruna the only remedy that has cured me permanently.

"Peruna has also cured my wife of catarrh. She always keeps it in the house for an attack of cold, which it invariably cures in a very short time."

Mr. E. A. Kelley, Belvidere, Ill. writes us: "I am an ex-engineer with 22 years active service to my credit. About three years ago my kidneys were so that I had to give up my engine. First I was troubled with severe aching pain over the hips. Then followed inflammation of the bladder, and specks appeared before my eyes. A sample of Foley's Kidney Pills that I tried, so benefited me that I bought more. I continued to take them until now I can safely testify they have made me a sound and well man." Sold by C. M. $3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Kidneys, Free

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling Etc

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscles weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for those troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this Dr. A. R. Robinson, "K" 325 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich, and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has a great healing and pain-conquering power

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

Rising waters in Spring Creek, threatening a flood even more disastrous than that of January 14, which submerged our press room, necessitated a sudden stop to composition in "The Republican" office last night. This interfered with plans for presenting complete election returns from the county, but rather than take the risk of being flooded and thus several days late with our edition, we had it run off last night.

NATIONAL PROTECTIVE LEGION CUTS DIVIDEND

Local Policy-Holders Get One-Half Amount Expected.

NICE LETTER, HOWEVER

National President Scott, Announcing Reduction in Dividends, Expresses Much Sympathy and Hopes for Better Luck Next Time.

Policy-holders in the National Protective Legion, whose policies expired with the first of the year, were both surprised and disappointed to receive notice that the expected dividend had been cut in half. A number of such policy-holders are residents of Bellefonte and other parts of Centre County. In some instances they have submitted their claims to lawyers to ascertain if they have any redress.

The National Protective Legion issues certificates, payable on death and also providing for disability and accident benefits. The home office of the concern is at Waverly, New York.

One policy-holder, a woman, who is a resident of Bellefonte, made monthly payments amounting in five years to upward of $250. She expected to receive at the end of the five years a dollar in addition to each dollar she had paid in, or $500 in all. To her amazement she received something over $100. Accompanying her check was a letter from George A. Scott, National President, in which he, speaking of the reduced dividend, said:

"I assume you understand that the dividends due at this time are very much reduced because of the requirement made upon the Organization to remove all technical deficiencies created because of the large dividends paid in the past. Such technical deficiencies will all have been removed with the close of the year 1912, and we have every reason to assume that the dividend five years from this date will be materially increased."

In another part of his letter, President Scott makes this comment:

"Of course we are all disappointed in the amount, because it is very much less than anticipated when we joined the Organization five years ago. I trust, however, that none of us have failed to appreciate the protection which it has afforded in the event of our disability or our death. I believe too, that we should appreciate the probability that had we not made payments to the Legion, we would not have saved the amount of the dividend now paid.

"Of course the Organization desires a continuance of your membership during another five-year period, and I wish to again remind you of the greater benefits to arise therefrom."

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Friends of William Resides Turn Out in His Honor.

When William Resides, the jolly carpenter, tumbled out of bed Thursday morning, last, he was dimly conscious of the fact that it was nis sixty-sixth birthday anniversary. Dressing in a casual sort of way he reflected on the events of passing years, until finally a sharp call to breakfast brought a sudden end to sentimental reminiscence.

To him it seemed that Mrs. Resides was in anything but a cheery mood. Some relatives, she explained, were coming to town that day, that it didn't suit at all and that they would have to take the best they could get. Now, William is a man gifted with a world of sunshine and his good nature quickly smoothed over the gathering clouds. So much so was this the case that he soon forgot all about it being his birthday.

He was invited to attend the Scenic that night with John Ishler and Charlie Eckenroth, and while he discreetly said nothing he thought it more or less a joke on Mrs. Resides and Mrs. Ishler that they were not included in the invitation.

Poor William! Little did he suspect that his good wife was playing a game on him, that her ruffled feelings were all assumed, and that when he was to return from the Scenic he would find such a surprise in store for him as proved to be the case.

Herbert Miller was posted as a scout at the First National Bank corner. He almost froze waiting for Mr. Resides to walk out of the Scenic and then hurried up Jail Hill to give the signal that the unsuspecting guest was coming. Instantly the house was darkened and the order for silence was given.

Without a thought of anything out of the usual in store for him, Mr. Resides opened the front door and stepped inside the house. Mrs. Resides was the first to greet him and he was pushed into the parlor. When the lights were turned up he could hardly believe his eves. Seated about the room were a score or more good friends, including twelve fellow-carpenters. In the centre of the room was a handsome rocking chair, a birthday gift. It was the only unoccupied chair in the room and Mr. Resides sat down into it to make sure that he was not dreaming. One after another of the friends and neighbors greeted him, extending congratulations, while Mrs. Resides every now and then tauntingly reminded him of earlier incidents of the day.

A few minutes later the doors to the dining room were opened and there was presented a scene not soon to be forgotten. A long table fairly groaned under a burden of delicious things to eat. At the centre of the table was a large flag-draped card with the figures "66", telling the significance of the occasion and indicating the seat of the guest of honor. Mrs. Resides occupied a seat immediately to the left, being the only woman at the table. Others seated about the table included fellow-carpenters and the editor of "The Republican," who has been a life-long friend of Mr. Resides.

The only mistake in the entire program was that the supper was not made a breakfast and scheduled for about 6 o'clock in the morning, for it would have taken a full day in which to dispose of the many good things which had been prepared by women who are first-class cooks and who know what a man likes to eat. First stewed oysters were served and then cold meats, salads, etc., winding up with ice cream, cake and coffee.

When everybody had eaten to their heart's content Mrs. Resides called on the editor of "The Republican" for a few remarks. His response was brief, congratulating Mr. Resides on his recovery from his painful accident of a few months ago and referring to the fact that Mr. Resides could well feel proud to be surrounded by so many friends who had tried to make the evening one long to be remembered. James Rine also spoke briefly, paying a beautiful tribute to Mr. Resides as a man and a friend and expressing the hope that all present might meet again on some similar occasion.

After the supper several hours were spent very pleasantly and then all departed for their respective homes, wishing Mr. Resides many more years of health and happiness and congratulating Mrs. Resides on her clever management of the function.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. John H. Jacobs, of Boalsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Resides, of Fillmore, and Mrs. John Leach, of State College. From Bellefonte those present included Mr. and Mrs. John Ishler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eckenroth, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baney, Mr. and Mrs. William Sowers, Mrs. Harry Macker, and Mrs. Belle Barr. Fellow-carpenters present were Harry Jonnson, James Rine, Herman Miller, Harry Fike, Herbert Miller, William Hill, J. H. Eberhart, F. Gardner, J. R. Blythe, H. M. Bayley, B. Ott and Edward J. Gehret.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its states, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, action directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

$640 in Cash Burned.

"In a fire which on Saturday night last, destroyed the home of Frederick Pepper, at Troy, near Philipsburg, $640 in cash, which was in the house at the time, was also burned. Mr. Pepper and his family escaped from the burning building in their night clothes. A high wind was blowing at the time and the house was completely destroyed with nearly all its contents."

From "Bellefonte Republican," Feb. 10th.

If the owner of the money lost in the fire described above had heeded our advice his money would now be safe. After each reported loss we receive deposits from persons who have made a practice of keeping money at home. A few days ago a depositor left $1000 with us that had been kept in the house for many months; another gave us $500 that he had carried about him until the notes were nearly destroyed. Why should anyone take such risks? Let us take care of your money. With our large capital and surplus and careful management you are absolutely safe.

Mail-carrier Gearhart and family last week visited friends over in Huntingdon county, and Mr. Booz took care of Unlce Sam's mail matter for the time being.

Last Saturday over one hundred friends and neighbors invaded David Hallman's home and reminded him of of his 54th birthday anniversary. It was a real surprise, planned and cleverly executed by his wife and Mrs. T. C. Crownover. Mr. Hallman had been decoyed away from home several days, so that it was a complete surprise to him. Refreshments were served, full and plenty, and many presents were brought to their home at Manor Hill.

Vern McGill is a very sick man at the home of Harry Shugarts, on the Branch. He is suffering from pneumonia.

The venerable Adam Felty, who has been on the broad of his back the past ten weeks, is going to celebrate Washington's birthday by getting out of bed. This will be glad news to his many friends.

T. C. Crownover, farmer, lumberman and stock-man, at Saulsburg, was home on Friday looking over his worldy possessions on the branch.

Monday evening a jolly crowd of sledders were royally entertained at the Harry Elder home, on the Branch. Splendid refreshments were served and the evening passed only too swiftly with the fun and music and a happy time for all.

On Saturday the home of Mrs. James G. Fortney, on Main Street, was the scene of a splendid reception, given to J. W. Fry and his bride, who had just returned from their wedding tour. None but the immediate relatives of the young couple were present to partake of an elegant feast. Many bautiful presents were brought and several hours were spent very delightfully.

G. Wood Miller loaded a car of wheat at Fairbook on Friday at the $1.22 mark.

After anall-Summer visit among friends in Centre County, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Jordon and two sons left for their home at Freeport, Ill., where Mr Jordon is the overseer of a large farm. George Jordon of Shingletown, accompanied them and expects to try his hand at farming in the "Sucker State" next summer.

Samuel Elder, one of our prominent farmers, is housed up with the grip.

Mrs. Joel Ferree, who has been confined to her bed most of the Winter, is slowly improving.

With the rapid increase of stock prices can't soar much higher. Three sets of twin calves were reported last Friday. George Berhrs bronze guernsey gave birth to a pair of fine calves. The same morning a black angus cow and a gurnsey suckey each gave birth to twins at the State College farm. All the calves are doing well.

J. Will Kepler transacted business at Milton on Thursday and Friday of last week.

Owing to a crushed leg, lumberman W. C. Giboney was obliged to kill his best horse on the job last Tuesday. The leg was crushed between two logs while skidding in the woods.

County Commissioner John L. Dunlap was a pleasant visitor one day last week. In the evening he had a pleasant drive to Baileyville with his daughter, Catherine, and Edith, Ralph, Helen and Dorothy Decker, of Pine Grove Mills. On the return trip he kindly upset the sleigh and tumbled the children into the snow. Pine Grove Mills will settle with him the next time he comes this way.

Howard.

With a view of filling up the sink hole in the rear of the passenger and freight station the Pennsylvania Railroad has shipped several carloads of cinders here to be used for that purpose. This sink hole has for years been one of the eyesores of the town and should have been filled up long ago. It is to be hoped that the company will make this part of their right-of-way as neat and attractive as it should be and our citizens will be grateful for the improvement.

David Kochler, who several weeks ago was badly injured by falling down stairs while on a visit to his brother, Dr. W. H. Kochler, at Bellefonte, was on last Friday brought to this place and taken to the home of Irvin M. Lucas, where he is being well cared for. Mr. Kochler's condition is still such as to give his friends the gravest concern.

Last Friday a number of the Lady Rebekahs of this place hired Leonard Confer with his big team and sled to take them to Bellefonte to pay a fraternal visit to the lodge at that place. The trip to the county seat was made without incident and the Bellefonte ladies gave the visitors a hearty reception and all enjoyed the visit very much. But when the time came for returning home considerable snow had fallen and was still coming down so fast as to make it unsafe to venture the return trip at night. It was decided the safest way would be to remain in Bellefonte all night and the jolly bunch was safely housed at the Haag Hotel until the next morning, when they returned to their homes. Among the number we noted the Mesdames Edward Green, John Wagner, John Weber G. L. Williams, Leonard Confer, H. L. Neff, Joseph Dunkle, H. O. Pletcher, Mable Jenkins, Alonzo Henderson, W. C. Thompson, L. C. Thompson and the Misses Helen Bennison and Alta Yearick.

The same evening another bunch of young ladies known as the Thimble Club went to State College to spend a few hours at the home of a friend. The party was composed of just the right number and proper persons to insure all the fun and diversion there was to be had and doubtless which they did have on the way and at the home of their hostess in State College. But the joke was turned on them when the home-coming time came. There was too much snow and the return trip by sled was abandoned. Saturday's trains brought the young ladies home at different times during the day, but naturally the girls will not admit anything but that they had a royal good time. Just ask any of the following: Misses Anna and Josephine Muffly, Flora and Susan Pletcher, Zelma and Mollie Yearick, Emma Pletcher, Lulu Stover, Rhue DeHaas, Minnie Heverly, Minnie Robb, Lauretta Weber and Anna Holter.

W. S. Mallalieu and William Houser, representatives of the Bell Telephone Company, were down from Bellefonte last week looking after their lines in this vicinity.

Miss Ida Kochler, of Bellefonte, was a guest over Sunday with Miss Anna Holter.

James Krape, who has been hostler and handy man at the office of Dr. J. W. Kurtz for some time, has gone to Bellefonte, where he will be employed at the hospital. James is a good, first-rate fellow and will doubtless give entire satisfaction in his new position. He will be greatly missed in church and social circles here.

Cashier John P. Harris, of the Bellefonte Trust Company, was a business visitor here on Saturday.

Clement Dale, of Bellefonte, was looking after legal affairs here on Monday.

A number of the friends of Miss Mable Confer gave a party for her at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alonza Henderson, on Monday evening, the time being spent in innocent games and diversions and the occasion being an enjoyable one to all present.

The same evening a bunch of the older young folks enjoyed the hospitality of the home of G. L. Williams and wife, where they spent a few hours in forgetting the cares of life and made merry in their usual light-hearted way.

On Friday afternoon the schools will hold special exercises commemorating the birthday anniversaries of four famous Americans, two statesmen and two poets, viz: Lincoln, Washington, Lowell and Longfellow. The reason why all are commemorated on one day is that they come in the same month and it would require too much time and preparation to have a special program for each one. In this manner the patriotic spirit of the pupils can be developed as well as the literary side of their education.

A number of the pupils of our schools as well as the teachers and others interested in education will attend the teachers' local institute at Yarnell, this Friday and Saturday.

Every member of the Christian Church. Don't be scared and stay away on account of your pocketbooks, but go and hear what these gentlemen have to say about the missionary movement now under way in this country. They are not after your purse, but want to have you there irrespective of denomination.

Constable Butler was a visitor to Howard on Saturday.

David Bathurst, who has been working at Coatesville for some time past, arrived on Saturday evening to remain until after Tuesday's election.

There was preaching in the Kennedy Methodist Episcopal church, by Rev. R. S. Taylor. Owing to the bad roads the attendance was not so large as otherwise would have been the case.

No nation ever went to ruin so long as the mass of its people believed so supremely in principle as to be willing to sacrifice comfort and worldly ease, as well as material wealth and social standing, rather than yield to wrong. No people ever accomplished anything worth while, anything abiding, unless they were spiritual brothers and sisters to the pilgrims who founded New England and with it the republic of which we are citizens. Ruggedness of character, intensity of belief and fearless devotion to principle are characteristics of the pioneers who founded this nation and brought to light new ideas of government. Nobody has ever contended that the Puritans were particularly suave and courteous neighbors. They were not gifted in those ceremonious graces which distinguished the cavaliers of that time or of the fashionables of the twentieth century. They had no time for flowers of speech or tricks of courtly conduct. They were sincere men, men who were in deadly earnest in believing in the Almighty; sure that righteousness exalteth a nation while sin is a reproach to any people. That is why they succeeded in their efforts to found a new and singular nation. Students of history have long since observed that the proudest moment in the life of a people may be fraught with unusual peril. In the beginning the graces and luxuries of civilization are absent. The men and women are earnest toilers. They have no time for folly or for leisure. The children are unfamiliar with aught but the plain living into which they are born. As the years pass population and wealth increase, the material becomes more important than the spiritual. Luxury is the portion of some overweening ambition for money, and the things money will bring takes possession of the average heart, distinction between right and wrong are confounded; men know the right but shut their ears to its imperious demand. Hundreds who started with pure hearts, generous impulses and sincere devotion to truth, gradually diverge into the paths of sodden materialism. They join in the mad race for the things that perish, forgetting that nothing but the unseen is not perishable. Deterioration of individual character is the certain prelude of the dead or dying nation, told by the unalterable truth of this statement.

Miss Cora Leathers is spending the week at Bellefonte.

A Card of Thanks.

Mrs. and Mr. James Lingle desire to express through the columns of "The Republican," their thanks to the many friends who rendered such valuable aid during the time of the fire at the home of W. W. Dunkle, at Central City, on Sunday. The assistance given by neighbors and friends undoubtedly saved the Lingle home from also being destroyed. As Mr. and Mrs. Lingle are getting pretty well along in years, the loss of their home would be a severe blow. They are correspondingly gratefnl and take this means of voicing their thanks.

For all the news read "The Republican," $1 a year in advance.

SOUTHERN CATTLE TICK

Advantages Realized in Areas Freed from These Pests.

The benefits of exterminating cattle ticks are being realized in a very practical way in the parts of the South that have been freed from these pests and released from quarantine. Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, in his annual report recently submitted to the Secretary of Agriculture, has the following to say on this subject:

"An investigation recently made by the bureau of this territory shows that great improvemsnt has already resulted from this work More cattle are being raised and a better grade of breeding stock is being introduced; calves grow faster and cattle put on flesh more rapidly during the grazing season and go into the winter in better condition because of absence of the ticks; they can be marketed without quarantine restrictions, and higher prices are being obtained; dairy cows give a larger yield of milk, and values of farm lands are enhanced. Aside from its own observations, the bureau has received from persons in the released territory numerous letters and other expressions confirming the foregoing facts and testifying to the great benefits following the extirmination of the ticks.

"The difference between the prices realized for cattle from the tick infested region and the prices of cattle of similar grades from above the quarantine line ranges from $2.25 to $5 a head at the principal Northern livestock markets without taking into account the improvements in qualify and weight of cattle because of the eradication of the ticks. As more than one million cattle from the quarantined area are annually sold in these markets, it can easily be seen that the extermination of the ticks means an annual increase of at least $3,000,000 in the prices obtained for Southern cattle sold in Northern markets. In addition to this the increase in the prices of cattle sold locally in the South would represent a large sum. This local increase has already been found to amount from $3 to $15 a head in the territory recently freed from ticks. An agricultural official of one of the Southern States reports that calves in the tick free area bring just double the price that can be obtained for calves in the tick infested region.

"Heretofore it has been impracticable to improve the quality of Southern cattle by introducing fine breeding animals from other sections, because such animals were liable to contract Texas fever and die unless protected by inoculation. Furthermore, it is impossible for animals to attain good growth and to thrive where they are heavily infected with ticks. With the eradication of the ticks, however, the Southern farmers are enabled to produce good breeding animals and to improve the grade of their stock.

BE A FARMER

Thus Defy Monopolists, Says Venango County Agriculturist.

"Be a farmer and snap your fingers at the monopolies," declares O. C. Sigworth, a progressive Venango county farmer, residing near Franklin, Pa. "A good farmer need not spend more than a few dollars on his table. His cellar should contain a jar of fruit and a glass of jelly for every day in the year. He should have vegetables, meat, lard and chickens.

"These, with milk, butter and eggs, make us independent. The trouble with our city friends is that they do not look ahead. Town folks could buy apples when they are selling at rock bottom prices and make applebutter, as our mothers used to.

"They ought to buy tomatoes when they sell at 50 cents a bushel and preserve at least 50 quarts.

"I take issue with those who say things cost more than they used to. In 1872 I paid $1 for four pounds of green coffee, 12½ cents a pound for sugar, 15 cents a pound for prunes and 25 cents a pound for rice.

"I paid $2 for a hat I could buy now for $1, $3 for gloves that I could duplicate now for $1.50, 45 cents a yard for checkling for shirts, $10 for wedding boots and $8 for an ordinary pair of shoes.

"The wage earner is hampered by credit. He goes into debt for two weeks and his money has to be paid out the day he gets it. It would be better for him to go hungry for two weeks than never to have any money ahead.

"My advice to those who don't like life on a farm is: drop style, pay your debts, buy for cash and look ahead."

How Sugar Melts.

If we drop a lump of sugar into a cup of tea we find it takes a considerable time to melt if allowed to remain at the bottom of the vessel, but if we hold it up in the spoon near the surface of the liquid it dissolves much more rapidly. This is owing to the sugar as it melts rendering the portion of the tea containing it heavier. The sweetened part, therefore, descends, leaving the sugar constantly in contact with unsweetened or only partially sweetened tea—in fact, a continual circulation of fluid is promoted until the whole is dissolved. When the sugar is placed or permitted to lie at the bottom of the cup it dissolves until the layer of fluid next it is thoroughly sweetened or saturated, when it practically ceases to dissolve any further, the sweetened and heavier stratum above it acting for a considerable time until the law of diffusion comes gradually into play, like an impervious covering, in keeping back the lighter, unsweetened fluid above; hence the reason also why stirring, in breaking up the saturated layer and allowing access to the unsweetened portion, is so effectual in bringing about the uniform sweetening of tea. Life is not infrequently sweetened by the same stirring up process.

The Family Pair.

The wriggly stillness of the study period was broken by a slamming door, and a thin boy in dirty, ragged clothes slouched across the room. Halfway to the teacher's desk he drawled, "Pa wants that you should let Jim go home right now." As Miss Davis looked a little doubtful, he added, "He kin come back right away."

The permission given, the two badly soiled, half starved sons of the most shiftless family in the district shuffled down the stairs. Very shortly Jim returned, wearing a pleased and important smile on his pathetic little face.

"I come as soon's I could. Pa's brother's dyin' to Poplar," he announced cheerfully. "That's why pa wanted me."

"But you weren't gone long; you didn't stay home. I can't see why you went at all," answered the bewildered Miss Davis.

"Why, pa's goin'," explained Jim.

"Yes, but what has that to do with you?" asked the teacher.

"Pa had to have his suspenders," was Jim's matter of fact reply.—Exchange.

The Power of Snails.

One day by way of experiment I harnessed two common garden snails to a toy gun carriage to see if they could pull it along, says a writer in a London magazine. Although the gun carriage was a heavy leaden one, the snails pulled it so easily that I loaded the body of the carriage with small shot. The snails, however, were more than equal to the task. Anxious to test their powers still further, I attached a toy cannon (made of lead and brass) behind the gun carriage, but the snails and their additional load moved on once again with the same apparent ease. Out of curiosity I decided to weigh the cannon, gun carriage and shot and to my great surprise found the total weight to be almost one-pound. I venture to think this a very good load for two snails to manage.

The Frying Pan.

"People are always decrying the frying pan," said an experienced cook, "but the thing they refer to—cooking meat, etc., in a shallow pan with butter as fat—isn't really frying it; it is sauteing. The real frying pan is a deep kettle filled with hot clear lard or olive oil. In this the food—doughnut, croquette or whatever it may be—is immersed just long enough to make it crisp and brown on the outside and feathery and light on the inside. Food cooked in this way is entirely digestible if properly made. But so many cooks make the mistake of putting too much shortening in the mixture to be fried, and the fat inside, combining with the fat outside, prevents the formation of the crisp crust and makes the food soggy."

Meanness to a Blind Man.

A man with dark glasses over his eyes touched the conductor on the shoulder as the car neared Euclid avenue and East Fifty-fifth street.

"Pardon me," the man said, "but if you're the conductor I want to ask a favor. I'm blind, and I want you to lead me over to the curb when the car stops, if you'll be so good."

"Not that I minded the little bother of doin' that for him," remarked the conductor when he got back on his car, "but 'tain't right to let a blind man go around all alone like that at night trying to find his way around in the dark."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His Idea of Economy.

"It's all very well for you to preach economy," said his wife, "but I notice whenever I cut down expenses that you smoke better cigars and spend more money for your own pleasure than at any other time."

"Well, confound it, what do you suppose I want you to economize for, anyway?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Up and Down.

Mistress—Here's the man for that clock to be repaired. Get it for him, Nora—And, shure, where is it? Mistress—Upstairs, of course. Nora—Faith, an' I thought it had run down!—New York Press.

She Was Willing.

Man—Well, it's just this way: If I buy you a new coat I'll have to wear my old one another season. Wife—You sweet, generous thing, you!

ACKNOWLEDGD IT

Bellefonte Has to Bow to the Inevitable —Scores of Citizens Prove it.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Bellefonte given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this:

William McClellan, 244 E. Lamb Street, Bellefonte, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up in good shape and consequently I think highly of them. I suffered for a long time from a pain and lameness across my back and some mornings I could hardly get out of bed. My back ached constantly and the kidney secretions were irregular in passage. Hearing a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to give them a trial and procured a supply from Green's Pharmacy Co. They cured me and I am now enjoying good health. My advice to anyone afflicted with kidney compaint is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial." (Statement given October 21, 1907.)

Re-endorsement. Mr. McClellan was interviewed on November 23, 1909 and he said; "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills once or twice during the past two years, while suffering from backache and they have given me prompt relief. You are welcome to publish my testimonial at any time you desire."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CONSCRIPTION IN EUROPE

Methods by Which Armies of Continent Are Raised.

We hear a good deal about conscription, but few people know what it actually means, says Pearson's Weekly. In no country is every person who is able to fight drafted into the army. All males who are liable to serve undergo a physical examination, resulting in only a certain number being passed as fit for service.

No government has sufficient funds to draft the whole of these men into the regular army, so a selection is made by ballot, the number of men enrolled varying accordiug to the funds in the hands of the authorities.

The pay provided for the conscript is necessarily very trifling indeed, and will not compare with that paid to our volunteer soldiers. In fact, it is generally true that the conscript must fall back upon his private means.

The methods vary in each country; but take the case of one continental power. Every male subject not physically incapacitated is liable to enter the army at the age of 20, although those who care to enlist may do so at 18.

A register is kept of all youths who reach the age of 20 in the particular year. Men under 5 feet 2 inches in height are exempt from service, as well, of course, as those who suffer from natural infirmities which render them unsuitable for active service.

Other men also are exempt if they have helpless dependents; thus, the only son of a widow or of a disabled father, the latter category also including the only son of a father who is above 70 years of age. Then the eldest of a family of orphans is exempt, and in the case of two sons only one is liable, there being various other exemptions.

The term served by the conscript is one of 25 years, three years being spent in the regular army, six and a half in the army reserve, six in the territorial army and the remaining nine and a half years in the territorial reserve, all liability to service ceasing at 45.

The service is frequently so hated that all manner of methods are adopted in order to avoid it. In many cases substitutes are provided by the wealthy, though there are stringent regulations with regard to the provision of substitutes.

In most continental countries military malingering in order to avoid compulsory military service has reached the stage of a fine art. In fact, a formidable list of new crimes has been added to the statutes as a result, and medical men frequently have to suffer for their assistance in this particular kind of fraud.

Thus some time ago a number of Cologne doctors were arrested upon a charge of having administered pills to young conscripts. These pills consisted of drugs which produced the symptons of heart disease so effectively as completely to deceive the military authorities, with the result that the conscripts were declared unfit for service. In this case the fraud was brought to light by one of the conscripts dying as a result of an overdose of the medicine.

In Germany, where the conscript is frequently treated with the greatest harshness, there are very few towns where there are not specialists whose living depends solely in inducing such a condition of affairs as will render young men exempt by reason of unfitness.

In the French army it is quite common for youths to feign all manner of ills, deafness being the usual ailment trusted to in order to escape the service. As a result the military doctors have made an especial study of methods of detecting feigned deafness and to trap the cunning youth who acts the part of a deaf man.

Another common practice in France is to tamper with the eyesight, though this frequently results in permanent injury. For instance short sight is produced by wearing powerful conclave glasses for a considerable time, despite the risk of bringing about permanent blindness. It is no uncommon occurrence for men to commit suicide rather than submit to forced service in the army.

In eastern Europe most brutal methods are adopted by parents in order that their sons may be able to work for them instead of serving in the army. The boys are frequently ill-treated, and it is not at all uncommon even for their limbs to be broke nor their sight to be destroyed in order to prevent any likelihood of their having to become soldiers.

Switzerland probably has the cheapest army and the least burdensome methods of conscription, the service being much lighter than in the other continental armies. Indeed, the conscript in the infantry army has to undergo actual training for only 135 days during the entire period of his service.

It is fixed by the constitution that no standing army can be maintained within the limits of the confederation, though every citizen is liable to military service for a period of 25 years. In addition to this, all ablebodied men between the ages of 17 and 50 years are enrolled under a special category.

The training during the first year is the heaviest; afterward the man has to practice with a rifle each year, while he is called out for training every alternate year.

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Cures it in a few hours Relieves any pain in any part.

AN INNOCENT VICTIM.

The Original of Squeers Died of a Broken Heart.

The grossest injury which Dickens ever inflicted on a fellow being was his too accurate portrait of an innocent man in his Squeers. That Yorkshire schoolmasters were, as a rule, cruel and wicked enough it is true, but the particular schoolmaster who was recognized and who recognized himself as the original Squeers seems to have been an exception to the rule.

It will be remembered that Dickens and his illustrator traveled together to the north of England for the purpose of collecting material for "Nickleby" and especially for the Dotheboys espisode. At Great Bridge they visited a boarding school known as Bowes academy. The master, William Shaw, received the strangers with some hauteur and did not as much as withdraw his eyes from the operation of penmaking during the interview.

Phiz sketched him in the act; Dickens described the act. The personal pecularities of William Shaw were recognized in Squeers. Shaw became a butt of popular ridicule, lost his pupils and finally died of a broken heart. Yet there is abundant evidence to prove that he was a really excellent and kind hearted man, who was made to suffer for the misdeeds of his neighbors.—Exchange.

BOTH WANTED TO KNOW.

But the Beautiful Daughter Got the Better of the Contest.

"Maria," said the choleric father of a beautiful daughter, "who was that young fool who called on you last night and stayed until midnight? I want to know at once."

"You shall know in due time," said Maria, "but first I want to know something. Was he a young fool simply because he called on me?"

"What"—

"Or was he a young fool because he thought me attractive enough to talk to until midnight?"

"Why"—

"I suppose you think that any young man who comes to this house at all is a young fool, but why?"

"Now, see here"—

"Is it because there are so many girls who have sensible fathers that any young man who calls on the daughter of an ill natured old curmudgeon is a young fool?"

"For goodness' sake"—

"But I suppose—(sob)—I ought to—(gurgle)—be grateful—(sob)—because you didn't call him a fool to his face for coming to see me. I know you despise me (boo-hoo-hoo), but"—

But Maria was talking to space. The choleric father had fled to the cyclone cellar.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Thirteener.

A nervous little man stepped briskly into a Euclid avenue jewelry store the other morning with a medium sized clock under his wing, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. He placed the chronometer on the counter, turned the hands around to about one minute of 12 o'clock and told the expert behind the counter to listen. "It keeps perfect time," the customer said, "but I want to find out if you notice anything wrong with the way it strikes." The jeweler listened. "There's nothing wrong," he replied, with a grin, after the clock had struck, "except that she strikes thirteen instead of twelve. That can easily be remedied." The customer looked as relieved as if he'd just awakened from a bad dream. "That's just what I've always thought ever since we've had the clock," he burst forth. "I've always felt sure it struck thirteen. But no one else in the family ever spoke of it, and I was afraid to say anything about it for fear there was something wrong with my own works. Well, it's worth the price of having the thing repaired just to find out I was right."

The Tears In Books.

It is not hard to understand why, when a book makes you laugh, you want to read it, and to read it over and over again. But it is rather puzzling to find that one also enjoys reading and reread'ng books that make one want to cry. What can there be in us that likes to be made to feel unhappy? In real life we don't try to do things that will make us suffer—not at all! But there are books that you cannot think of once you have read them without tears coming to your eyes, and yet you will find that you love those books perhaps more than any others.

To feel deeply is one of the best things in life, and there maybe lies the explanation of why we do love sad stories. They make us unhappy in a way, but they do not leave behind any bitterness or sense of personal loss. And they usually have a special beauty of their own.—St. Nicholas.

Trials of a Host.

"I suppose you will give some elaborate entertainments this season?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox; "I think we'll improve on those of last season."

"Weren't they all successful?"

"Nope. It was my fault. I tried to make everybody have a good time, and the first thing I knew mother and the girls were complaining because they weren't sufficiently high class and formal."—Washington Star.

Why He Stopped.

"You used to be an awful spendthrift."

"Yep. But I ain't any longer."

"Ah! Reformed?"

"No; spent it all."—Cleveland Leader.

He who has lost confidence can lose nothing more.—Boiste.

Mistake In the Bill.

A gentleman, says Modern Women, who recently returned from a tour in Spain tells this story:

I left Seville on foot after a stay of a week and was twenty miles away when I was overtaken by the landlord of the hotel in which I had stayed. The innkeeper rode beside me for nearly an hour before he found courage to make known his business.

"'F the senor and God please," he began apologetically, "I made a mistake in his bill yesterday."

"How?" I inquired.

"I forgot to make a charge for his candles to light him to bed."

"But it was moonlight, and I had no candles."

"Then, senor, with the help of God, I forgot to charge you with the moonlight."

The charge amounted to 2 cents in American money, and he had hired an ass and ridden twenty miles to collect it. I was amused and astonished. Then I accused him of being a robber and offered him a cent to settle the bill. He worked up a beautiful smile and held out his hand.

"I will take it, with thanks, senor," he said. "God will bless you for an honest man!"

First Mortgage Bonds.

By reason of the insistence of many investors that their bonds be of "first" mortgage it may be said that the importance of the word "first" is dependent upon the circumstances, says Moody's Magazine. A bond may be first in fact. It may be so only in a relative sense in that it indicates the order in which the bond was put out by the issuing company or the use of the term "first" in the name of a bond, undesirable and loose though it be in such instances, may be upon the slight ground that the mortgage is indeed first on some part of the property, while on other parts it may have but a third or fourth claim. It is therefore obvious that the mere presence of this term in a title does not necessarily make the bond an absolutely prior lien. It has been estimated that 95 per cent in number and 95 per cent in value of steam railroad "firsts" are first liens in name only.

The First Sleeping Car.

The first real sleeping car was built in 1864. It was called the Pioneer, and the builder further designated it by the letter "A," not dreaming that he would soon exhaust the letters of the alphabet. The Pioneer was built in a Chicago and Alton shop and cost the almost fabulous sum of $18,000. That was reckless extravagance in a year when the best of railroad coaches could be built at a cost not exceeding $4,500. But the Pioneer was blazing a new path in luxury. Without it was radiant in paint and varnish, in gay stripes and lettering. It was a giant compared with its fellows, for it was a foot wider and two and a half higher than any car ever built before. It had the hinged berths that are the distinctive feature of the American sleeping car today, and the porter and the passengers no longer had to drag the bedding from closets at the far end of the car.—Outing.

Cape of Good Hope.

In 1487 Bartholomew Diaz sailed far enough south along the western coast of Africa not only to descry but to double the Cape of Storms, as it was then called, and as the coast was ascertained to run toward the northeast the prospect of success in the direction of India seemed now so clear that the Portuguese monarch renamed the cape "Cabo de Boa Esperanza," or Cape of Good Hope. The "good hope" was realized in 1498 by Vasco da Gama, who, doubling the southernmost point of Africa, sailed on to Calicut, thus opening up the long dreamed of route to India.

He Wasn't Glad.

Steve Long is noted for attending to his own business and saying very little about it. One morning an iquisitive neighbor met him returning from the woods with his gun over his shoulder.

"Hello, Steve! Where hev ye been—a-shootin'?'

"Yep."

"What ye been a-shootin'?"

"Dog."

"Yer dog? My! Was he mad?"

"Waal, he didn't look so danged well pleased."—Everybody's Magazine.

The Blind Leading the Blind.

Neither Mabel nor Willie has quite mastered the intricacies of English pronunciation, but each delights in correcting the other's mistakes. Last Sunday, while the family was at dinner, Mabel said:

"Please pass the dravy."

Willie saw his chance and quickly exclaimed:

"Well, Mabel! If I couldn't say dravy I'd say drease."—Woman's Home Companion.

Pretty Ancient.

"Billinger has some very ancient airs in his new comic opera."

"Ancient! Say, I'll bet he has gone back for some of them to the time when the morning stars sang together!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Double Job.

"Tell me—ah—are you a—er—ah—a good, careful, excellent cook and a—er—a very superior laundress?"

"Ah-h-h! Wot d'ye take me fer—twins?"—Harper's Weekly.

Inconsistent.

"Your pictures are inconsistent."

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Alice Getty, the accomplished daughter of H. H. Getty of Chicago and the Avenue des Champs Elysees, has startled Paris by formally joining the Buddhist religion.

Ida Lewis, the well known life saver and keeper of Lime Rock lighthouse, at Newport, R. I., has been made an honorary member of the Newport Yacht club, the first woman to secure this honor.

Mrs. George W. Childs Drexel is one of the acknowledged social leaders of Philadelphia, and her palatial town house on Locust street is frequently the scene of elaborate entertainments during the season.

Miss Anna Heinrichsdorff of Moscow, after studying four years at the Berlin Polytechnical institute, passed the electrical engineer's examination in all its branches, receiving in each one the mark excellent.

Mrs. Richard Watson Gilder as president of the National League For the Civic Education of Woman has been asked to cause an investigation to be made of the conditions under which women work in the laundries in Greater New York.

Mrs. W. W. Armstrong of Rochester has been re-elected for a third term as president of the board of managers of the reformatory for women at Albion, N. Y. This is a mixed board, and the secretary and treasurer are men. Mrs. Armstrong is on the commission in charge of establishing the state farm for women.

Church and Clergy.

The oldest Methodist Episcopal church in Maine is at Monmouth. The church was organized by Jesse Lee in 1794.

There are not many women preachers in Great Britain, but Miss Harriet Orfer Baker is in charge of a congregational hall in a small village in Sussex, and Miss L. C. R. Smith is the elected pastor of a congregation in Cardiff.

The Rev. Sedgwick W. Bidwell of East Middlebury, Vt., who finished his active pastorate at the age of ninety after sixty-six years in the ministry, celebrated his one hundredth birthday recently by preaching in the Methodist church.

The Rev. John F. Harvard, who celebrated his ninetieth birthday recently, has been vicar of Little Maplestead, England, for fifty-five years. His income from the living is £54 a year, and he lives in a cottage for which he pays £5 a year rent.

Things Theatrical.

William Gillette is now at work on a new comedy to be produced by Charles Frohman as soon as it is completed.

Louise Gunning is to star in "The Glassblowers," with music by John Philip Sousa. The book is by Leonard Leibling.

Ruth St. Denis, who has created a sensation in New York with her East Indian dances, was at one time an actress in Mrs. Leslie Carter's company in "Du Barry."

The Shuberts have accepted "The Man Higher Up," the first dramatic work of Arthur J. Eddy, author of "Ganton & Co." It will be produced in New York shortly.

Louis Mann has made an adaptation of "The Double Man," written by Arthur Lipshuetz and William Jacoby, and will produce it as "Two of Him," although he will not personally take part in the farce.

The Writers.

Mark Twain is now seventy-four and is suffering with a tobacco heart, yet he himself says that he never smoked more than one cigar at a time.

Mary Johnston, the novelist, has declared herself in full sympathy with the movement to secure the political enfranchisement of women.

Emerson's two rules to young scholars have often been quoted. "Room alone" and "Keep a journal." He followed the latter rule faithfully all his life, and it was in this journal that he learned the art of writing.

On Count Tolstoy's recent visit to Moscow he was pursued by the cinematograph and pelted with flowers by the thousands assembled at the station to see him off. On reaching Yasnaya Polyana the aged count was visited by faintness.

The Cookbook.

Boiled suet puddings will have an added nutriment if they are mixed with milk or milk and water.

If a turkey or chicken is rubbed inside and out with lemon it will make the meat white, juicy and tender.

To beat bread sponge quickly use a large sized egg beater. It does the same work as a machine and is quickly cleaned, and it will also save work in mixing cake batter.

A pretty way to bake apples is to cut them into halves, leaving on the skin. Sprinkle a little sugar over them and bake in a pan, skin side down. The skin need not be eaten, but it holds the slice in form.

Flower and Tree.

A white pine will measure twenty-five feet at twenty years and gain twenty-five feet more in the next ten years.

The smallest tree in the world is the Greenland birch. Its height is less than three inches, yet it covers a radius of two or three feet.

The pest of British Columbia forests is a plant called the devil's club. It has spikes which when they enter the flesh break off and produce poisoned wounds, which fester.

A Gentle Hint.

A certain butcher is renowned among his contemporaries for the quaintness and originality of some of his remarks. On a road leading to a neighboring parish he one day met a gentleman who at the time owed him for some meat. After a salutation the gentleman remarked:

"That's a fine fat dog you have, Alexander."

"Sae weel he may, sir," was the reply, "for he has an easy conscience and is oot o' debt, and that's mair than you or I can say."

The hint was taken, and the butcher got his money next day.—London Answers.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

Interesting Meetings Being Held at Centre Hall.

An interesting program marks the Farmers' Institute, which convened yesterday at Centre Hall and which continues over today. The lecturers are: Elmer E. Dockey, Elizabethville; R. P. Kester, Grampian; Henry W. Northup, Dalton; Miss Sarah G. Lovejoy, State College, and Homer W. Jackson, State College. Leonard Rhone is the local chairman with George L. Goodhart as presiding officer. Other members of the local committee are: D. K. Keller, D. L. Bartges, S. W. Smith and Professor P. H. Meyer, musical director.

After an address of welcome by Chairman Goodhart, at yesterday's session, the program called for the following: "The Exhaustion and Restoration of Our Soil," by Mr. Northup; "How to Handle Barnyard Manure Successfully," by Mr. Dockey; "The Silo," by Mr Kester; "The Farmer's Boy and Girl and How to Keep Them on the Farm," by Mr. Dockey; "Educating the Farmer and Increasing His Usefulness," by Mr. Northup; "The Education We Need," by Mr. Kester.

Today's program includes the following: "Value of Corn and How to Raise a Successful Crop," by Mr. Dockey; "Potato Culture," by Mr. Northup; "The Farmer as a Citizen," by Mr. Kester; "Selection, Care and Management of the Dairy," by Mr. Northup; "The Financial Responsibility of the Home-Maker," by Miss Lovejoy; "Alfalfa and How to Grow it Successfully," by Mr. Dockey; "Poultry Keeping on the Farm," by Mr. Jackson; "Modernizing the Old Farm Home," by Miss Lovejoy; "The Necessity of Farmers' Organizations," by Mr. Dockey, and "Desirable Country Homes and How to Enjoy Them," by Mr. Northup.

He will be supplied with milk by Henry Earon, who has purchased the William Welsh farm, midway between Beech Creek and Mill Hall.

Their Horse Ran Away.

Miss Olive Clark and Miss Nellie Winslow, of Blanchard, last Thursday enjoyed a sleigh ride to the home of Charles Salmon, in Beech Creek township, but when they were making ready for the return trip their horse ran away. They were hitching the horse, but did not have it made fast to the shafts, when the animal decided it was time to start home. Harry Haagen caught the horse at the farm of Charles Bickle and restored it to the young women.

Hen Lays Red Eggs.

So contagious is the Cornell spirit that a white Ithaca hen of the most unblemished color has been persuaded, after a course of dietetics with professors of the Cornell State College of Agriculture, to lay eggs bright with the Cornell colors. The yolks are red and the albumen white.

A harmless dye was given to the hen with her feed, and when it was seen that her plumage began to turn a delicate pink, her eggs were examined and found to be more deeply colored yet. Other admixtures of dye turn the yolk of the egg pink and the hen's feet pink.

COL. TAYLOR ELECTED CAPTAIN OF COMPANY L

Unanimous Choice to Command Bellefonte Organization.

SAYS HE WILL ACCEPT

Forwards Resignation as Colonel to Governor Stuart—First Work Will be to Prepare Company for Inspection on March 10.

Colonel Hugh S. Taylor was on Tuesday night, last, unanimously elected captain of Company L (formerly Company B) Pennsylvania National Guard. He succeeds Captain Philip F. Garbrick, who resigned owing to a press of business interests.

That Colonel Taylor would be chosen to command the Bellefonte company was foreshadowed exclusively in "The Republican" several weeks ago. He promptly announced that he would accept and his first work will be to put the company in shape for the inspection, on March 10.

Lieutenant Colonel Barber, of Lewisburg, conducted Tuesday evening's election. No other name was presented after First Sergeant J. Linn Blackford had placed Colonel Taylor in nomination. Colonel Taylor was present, but made no statement, although it was known in advance by the members of the company that he would accept.

Following the action of Company L in electing him as captain, Colonel Taylor forwarded his resignation as a colonel to Governor Stuart, at Harrisburg. Since the organization of the National Guard, he had been attached to the Governor's staff. Although he retained his title as colonel he was without a command and this prompted him to return to his old rank as captain of the Bellefonte company which is attached to the Twelfth regiment, with headquarters at Sunbury.

CENTRE COUNTIANS BANQUET

Annual Dinner of Philadelphia Association Last Night.

The sixth annual dinner of the Centre County Association of Philadelphia was held at "The Normandie", in that city, last night and was well attended. The speakers included Dr. Roland G. Curtin, president of the association, and former Senator William C. Heinle, who went to Philadelphia for the sole purpose of attending the dinner.

The officers of the association are Dr. Curtin, president; Ira D. Garman, vice president Dr. S. Gray Mattern, treasurer, and D. J. C. C. Beale, secretary. The Board of Directors is composed of the following: General B. F. Fisher, Dr. George P. Rishel, Colonel J. L. Spangler, Charles McCafferty, William S. Furst, Herman A. Haupt, Rev. Robert Harkinson, Forrest N. Magee Warner Underwood, Max Liveright, William A. Magee, Thomas J. Loughrey, B. Frank Schaffer, Professor William T. Meyer, Dr. Stewart C. Runkle, L. Olin Meek, Thomas Foster, Charles H. Wright and Rev. W. K. Foster.

Hobbies of Collectors.

Once bitten with the mania for collecting things, and the average individual seems to lose all control over himself. It does not matter, apparently, what the objects are. "Old" china that is not old, stamps perforated or surcharged in a peculiar way for these and other such-like intrinsically valueless articles he will cheerfully pay away a fortune if need be.

One well-known English woman who died recently expended $30,000 on keys. Her collection comprised the key of the Nuremberg iron virgin, once said to have belonged to Cleopatria's jewel case; another of the private sitting room of the murdered Queen Draga of Servia; a huge iron specimen from the Tower of London got by bribing a "beefeater"—and the one that used to unlock Anne Hathaway's cottage at Stratford-on-Avon.

A rich fellow-countryman of this "faddist" collects wooden legs, of which he possesses several hundred specimens. Minnie Palmer, the actress, had a craze for collecting stockings, and accumulated more than twenty trunks full.

King Edward's hobby is walking sticks, of which he possesses a fine assortment. His son, the Prince of Wales, is a stamp enthusiast. A London society woman devotes herself to collecting door handles, of which she owns over 2000 examples.

One London hotel proprietor has been collecting policemen's clubs for these forty years past. He has over 300 of them, including some that were served out to the special constables sworn in during the Chartist agitation, and others that are connected with special crimes.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following letters remain unclaim- at the Bellefonte postoffice: A. J. Burke, Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, Richard Packard, A. C. Walters. Persons calling for these letters will kindly explain to the postmaster that the same have been advertised in "The Republican."

D. A. R. Reception.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have issued invitations for a reception on Tuesday, Washington's birthday, from 8 to 11 P. M. at the home of Miss Helen H. Overton, the regent.

Unionville.

The cry with our people is the same as with all people of neighboring communities: Snow, cold weather and ice. The walks are so icy that travel on them is a serious matter. But then, our elderly people tell us that a hard winter invariably precedes a good summer, with fine vegetation and good crops of fruit and grain. So we are living in hopes, while we shovel snow and coal.

On last Saturday afternoon the funeral of Mrs. Frank Leathers was held in the M. E. church, Rev. Oyler officiating. The services were brief, but very appropriate. The occasion was especialty sad, owing to Mrs. Leathers having been alone. Two children survive her, but neither was with her at the time of her death. Her husband preceded her to the grave one year ago. She said she was ready and waiting for the change, but she did want to see her children first. Among those who attended the funeral were: Mrs. Toner Leathers, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. Barnhart, of Bellefonte; the Messrs Leathers, of Howard; Mr. Huston, of Tyrone; Charles Rowan, of Bellwood, Miss Margaret Rowan, of Tyrone, and Mr. Twitmire, of Bellefonte.

Mrs. Irvin Alexander, who has spent the past five weeks in Philadelphia with her daughter, Mrs. Loughry, returned home on last Friday.

Howard Pratt is home visiting his parents, who are both ill. The father is quite indisposed at this writing. Frank and James Pratt are expected home soon.

Quite a number of our people are on the sick list now with colds and grip.

The entertainment given by the young people of the M. E. church and a few others, was quite a success financially, and a very enjoyable time was experienced. The girls and boys worked hard and deserve credit for their perseverance under difficulties. The play was entitled, "A Scrap of Paper," and was written in French style, making it especially interesting to one not familiar with the customs of those people. But the real fun came in when "Jumbo Jum" made his appearance and acted his part to perfection as a colored servant. This was a play apart from the former, "A Scrap of Paper." Music was furnished by Miss Henchey and some recitations by Chapman Underwood. On Friday evening the severe snow storm prevented people from turning out, but on Saturday evening the entertainment was repeated to a crowded house. A sled load came from Milesburg but did not reach here until the entertainment was half over.

On Sunday the body of James Woleslagle was brought here on the 1:06 train and taken to the Free Methodist church, where services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Kelley. Interment was made in the upper cemetery. Mr. Woleslagle died in the hospital at Altoona. He leaves a wife and quite a number of children to mourn their loss.

On next Saturday, Sunday and Monday the Friends will hold a Quarterly Meeting in their church, beginning on Saturday at 1:30 p. m. All are invited to be present. Dr. O. Edward Janney, of Baltimore, will address the different sessions.

George Calhoun, of Pittsburg, is home with his family visiting their friends.

Miss Margaret Cambrige has been quite ill for some time.
